The power of the sun

Nature has been really good to us in giving us this form of energy that we can use every day, free of charge.

Natural light improves people's sense of well-being and contentment, whilst also having a positive effect on levels of productivity. It is healthy, it reduces the risk of accidents, it is environmentally friendly and it costs nothing, which means it can be used extremely efficiently. One further advantage is that light coming directly from above is up to five times brighter than light coming from the side.

ESSMANN skylight domes and arcade rooflights capture light effectively and direct it to wherever it is needed, in order to create perfectly lit, pleasant work stations, for example. Because we need light to live, to work and to feel a sense of well-being.
